

About Lisa Kennedy

Lisa is a Trawlwoolway story teller and artist and a descendant of Woretemoeteyenner from North East Tasmania. She lives near the coast in South Gippsland. Lisa weaves together inner and outer worlds through her paintings and stories and she believes that all of us have songs and stories of healing within us.

The paintings in this exhibition are illustrations within the book 'Respect', written by Sue Lawson and Boonwurrung elder Aunty Fay Stewart Muir, published by Megabala Books.

Lisa's other recently published works are illustrations in 'Welcome to Country' and 'Wilam', written by Aunty Joy Murphy and published by Black Dog Books, an imprint of Walker Books. 'Wilam' has just received a CBCA honours award.

Lisa is currently working on a picture book about a Tasmanian elder growing up on Flinders Island. She enjoys working illustrations with elders to tell personal and cultural stories to pass on and as a resource for schools.